In the following page, We rejoice with those that do rejoice and weep with them that weep. Romans 12:15

Yesterday, May 24, a disabled terrorist group called Shining Path, reignited after 40 years. The war between ideologies bloodied a village and left a warning to those who would not vote for the leading contender of the country's presidential position. My first reaction to the news was, Did the gospel ever reach this area? Did the victims plead for someone to intervene and save them before they died? The horror that the bodies burned were sent to a burning hell leaves me sleepless and restless; not because we are being threatened but because we have little time left to give Peru the gospel. The pro-Marxist party may win the election in a few weeks, they have already begun an exodus of Peruvians tantamount to the exodus of Venezuela two years ago. The US dollar is four times what it should be because today the currency is in jeopardy of collapse. Along with the news of political upheaval, COVID-19 destroyed their healthcare system. Strikes and protests are blocking food distribution, and many churches are shepherd-less because pastors feared going out or, some who didn't fear, have died. The owner of the little tienda (store) outside our door died of C-19 in April, so has his daughter. I have students who will not celebrate Father's Day with their father. Birthday parties, weddings and funerals are past-history, not soon to be enjoyed again. And yet, in the seeming tragedy of the flailing 20's, and life changed, death remains the same. One can indeed face death with the glorious hope of eternity with Him who conquered death.

I have never seen such a revival of 1 Corinthians 15! To God be the glory, the faith and testimony of the true believers in Peru are not shaken, they are resolved and prayerfully reminded that the resurrection is coming! Soldiers of Christ Arise! is the song on their lips and the burden in their heart! The trials have emboldened them to preach the Good News to their lost and dying friend or relative! We believe that this is fruit of the Spirit in their lives. It was the door that God opened for us, it does not mean the door is closed for those we taught and prepared for this moment.

URGENT UPDATE:

Since I began this letter, the new information is that the conflict indicts drug cartels.

Our corner tienda wants to sell bread (in the bags) but the store is closed this Sunday. It reminds me of people wanting the Bread of Life but the doors to the church have been shut.
