Nikki's Notes

A fairly popular treat here in

Cambodia is "pong tia kon", a hard boiled, partially-developed duck egg. They are easy to come by and are usually seasoned with a blend of spices (pepper, salt, and MSG). While my husband was studying the Bible with a man in the village last month, I was able to sit with his wife and learn how to make this "spice concoction." As you can see in this picture, they use a stone hand mill to grind the spices. It takes a great deal of work to crank the handle around, but produces enough spice to last about a month. This is a very important task for this lady's business. I'm thankful for the opportunity to learn some Khmer traditions while building new relationships.

Friends and Family in Christ,

November was a very busy month for us. We have been able to begin a weekly Bible study with Liep, the husband of Poch (who trusted Christ before she passed away recently). Please pray that God will open up his eyes of understanding to true faith.

Church services continue as usual, and we have added a Sunday School for the children who are attending regularly.

Sunday School

This past month, we sadly said good-bye to Rut, a young man in the church. He moved to the capital for work, and will be greatly missed. Please pray that God will raise up others to be faithful helpers in the work here.

As Christmas draws closer, we have a special opportunity to share the hope of the gospel with people. Although Christmas is not celebrated here, many Cambodians are familiar with it. Please be in prayer for some special outreach programs we have planned, both here in our neighborhood, as well as for the church. Pray that God will give us love and boldness, and that people's hearts would be open to learn of Him.

As many of our friends already know, I have recently been struggling with some health issues apparently associated with a viral infection. By God's grace, the worst seems to be past, but please pray that God will grant renewed health, strength, and energy for the work.

Prayer Requests

- Health and safety
- Language learning
- Relationship and witness with neighbors
- Members of Grace Baptist Church
- Special Christmas Outreach
