Nikki's Notes

I have had a desire for quite some time to learn how to cook Khmer dishes the "Khmer way." Sure, we eat Khmer food very often, but it still always tends to come out tasting more like my American dishes. My neighbor has offered to give me Khmer cooking lessons! So far, I've only learned how to successfully make one type of soup, but it actually tasted like a Khmer person made it and it's delicious! Gathering the spices and sauces has been a unique learning experience. While I may not be able to look exactly like a Khmer, speak exactly like a Khmer, or even live exactly like a Khmer, I'm hoping my cooking will be indistinguishable.

Prayer Requests

- Health and safety
- Language learning
- Relationship and witness with neighbors
- Health of Nhup
- Trip to Stung Treng

Dear Friends and Supporters,

It had been a long, exhausting day of travel and time at the hospital as we tried to deal with some health concerns. As we finally neared our home and some much desired rest, I received a call from my adoptive "older brother", who lives in another province. "I'm in town for my niece's wedding and want to invite you and your family to come. You can come in an hour or so." Despite this short notice, we were able to attend parts of the lengthy wedding ceremony over a couple of days, and cement our relationship with this man and his family. We are planning to visit him in his home province, Stung Treng, later this month. The Lord has blessed us with this friendship, please pray that during our time with him we will be able to clearly present the Gospel and that the Lord would convict this man's heart of his need for Christ.

Wedding time

Also last month, we were able to help transport a very sick poor man named Nhup to the provincial hospital. He has since been released from the hospital, but still has a long road of recovery. Last week, his niece came to church for the first time. Please pray for our efforts to aid this family both physically and especially spiritually.

While out in our soul-winning efforts, I have been able to meet and witness extensively to many people. Some have even expressed interest in studying further or attending the church. Please pray that the Lord will work in the hearts of these folks to help them to be willing to take the next step in faith, and that we will have divine wisdom and boldness as we seek to follow up with them.

For His Name's Sake,
