Nikki's Notes

A Thanksgiving in Cambodia

One tradition we have not forsaken while living overseas is the celebration of Thanksgiving. This holiday and the Fourth of July have been the only American holidays we've chosen to continue to celebrate even away from "home." So, what do we do? Well, our first year on the field we had the privilege of hosting Matt's dad during a short visit over Thanksgiving as well as Matt's sister while she was living with us. Our second year, it was just our family of four gathered together. However, this year there are plans to have at least 6 or 7 missionary families unite together to celebrate! We are so excited the Lord has given us a "family" to celebrate with in Cambodia. Our menu consist of all the typical favorites, including an American turkey! We always have so much to be thankful for as our Lord is always so loving and gracious towards us. Happy Thanksgiving from the Browns!

Dear Praying Friends,

As the Apostle Paul shared prayer requests with the church in Colosse, the great missionary asked them to pray for a "door of utterance". He was looking for any opportunity or open door that would allow him to proclaim the Gospel. We are always thankful when God provides these doors of utterance for us as well.

Currently, we have several people who are receptive and have allowed us to come and witness to them several times. Please pray for Cheoun, Bunteoun and his wife Ream, Meng Hong, Sak, and Net. Also please pray that the Lord will continue to open new doors of utterance for us.

This month, we will be working on a special project that we ask you to be in prayer for. On November 9th and 10th, we will be meeting with several Cambodian Christians to make video recordings of their salvation testimonies. We hope to use these testimonies as a witnessing tool. Most of the people we work with on a daily basis have never met a faithful Cambodian Christian, and this will allow them to hear personally how others from their nation and religion have trusted in Christ. Please pray that technical concerns can be worked through in order to create a high-quality resource, but most of all that Jesus Christ will be magnified and the Gospel explained clearly.

For His Name's Sake,

The Brown Family
