missionaries to CAMBODIA

Dear Praying Friends,

We trust this finds you rejoicing in the blessings of our Lord during this holiday season. Those of us who have believed in Jesus Christ have great reason to be joyful at Christmastime. Everyday, we witness to people here who believe that “god” is a glorified man. The truth, however, is so incredible - the Almighty, Everlasting Creator of all humbled Himself to become the purest and best human being this globe has ever known. May the Lord grant you great joy as you remember the birth of our sinless Savior.

“Is there any hope for those who have rebelled and sinned against God?” I asked Sak, a young man who we have been witnessing to. “Yes,” he replied. With excitement, I asked him to explain, hoping that he had finally grasped the truth. “Build up good works to make yourself a better person.” Though we have dealt with this point many times, these ideas that Cambodians are taught from childhood don’t go away easily! Please pray that God will give us the patience and wisdom to help Sak understand the Good News of salvation through faith. Continue in prayer as well for others that we are currently studying with, especially Bunteoun and Riem, and Meng Hong. These folks seem to be struggling as they count the cost of believing in Christ.

Recording Testimonies

Thanks to all who prayed about our testimony recording project. We were able to make high-quality video recordings of the testimonies of 8 Cambodian Christians over the course of 2 days. Our own hearts rejoiced to hear of God’s work in the lives of these people, and we are so excited to be able to share it with others. We are still in the process of editing and preparing them with a goal to have them ready to share via social media and physical distribution by next month.

Please continue in your prayers for this effort. Also, please pray for the special Christmas service that we will be putting on at the church.

For His Name’s Sake,
