Nikki's Notes

We often use Facebook to keep many of you informed on the most current events with our family and ministry! Just recently we were able to start a page just for those wanting to stay connected. You can look us up under "Browns to Cambodia." We hope to use this as an extra tool in keeping our prayer partners up to date. We are also open to questions and suggestions on what to highlight on our page. From the beginning the Lord has blessed us with a great team of friends and family who encourage us along this journey with their prayers and kind words. Thank you to all who have reached out to us and keep up with our family.

Prayer Requests

- Government relations
- Spiritual strength
- New relationships
- Health

Faithful Friends, Family, and Supporters,

We praise the Lord that we have received official government permission to evangelize in our district! While the process required a good bit of time and travel on our part, it did allow us to get acquainted with many of the officials in the area, and to start relationships on the right foot. Many of the officials in the Department of Religious Affairs are former Buddhist monks, and I had the opportunity to put gospel tracts in their hands and speak to them about the Lord. The head of Religious Affairs for the entire province, after signing our paperwork, asked for a "souvenir" from the Christians. This is a common gesture of respect and appreciation here, and we plan to present him with a nice banner of a Bible verse that he can hang in his office. Please pray for this added opportunity to share the gospel with the government officials, and thank you to all who prayed for the permission to go through.

Provincial Capital

Many of you are aware that Nikki has been dealing with some health issues over the past month or so. The Lord led us to a reliable American doctor in the capital who was able to give us some answers, and actually recommended us to go to Thailand for advanced testing. We are so thankful for missionary friends in Cambodia and Thailand who have been an incredible blessing to us during this difficult time, and also for so many of you who have been praying for us through it all. Although we initially thought Nikki would need surgery, the doctor in Thailand did not feel it was necessary, and Nikki is doing much better. Please continue to be in prayer for the needed health and strength for our entire family.

For His Name's Sake,

The Brown Family (Romans 15:20-21)
