Nikki's Notes

Last month we shared with you that Joshua and Julie started homeschooling. Oct. 1st they also began going to a local Cambodian school. Since we are able to finish our homeschooling in the mornings, they can attend Cambodian school in the afternoons. This opportunity will help them to learn the Khmer language as well as make many new friends. To be honest, it's a very difficult transition for them to go to a school where they don't understand what people are saying. However, even after only two days they were both excited about the friends they have made and the new words they are learning to read and write! The mother part of me wants to keep them as close as I can forever, but Matt and I believe this is best for them at this time. Would you please pray the Lord would protect them at their new school and give many new opportunities to spread the gospel in this community? Thank you!

Faithful Friends, Family, and Supporters,

We have a few personal praises to share with you this month. First of all, God has once again given us favor with the government regarding the work permits that we now need. Matt has already received his, and Nikki's is in the mail. Secondly, we thank the Lord for helping us through a medical trial that had both Matt and Julie in the hospital for dengue fever. Though this disease can be quite serious, God gave protection and quick recoveries.

Please pray with us about an upcoming opportunity for gospel proclamation. For some time, we have burdened to try to get on the radio with a Christian program. The local station is favorable to this, and we are working to develop a program. This is an involved project, and we ask you all to pray that the Lord will help in the translating of lessons as well as the recording. Lord willing, if we can prepare a month's worth of material, we will launch the program beginning in November. Please continue to pray for our door to door evangelism efforts, as well as the opportunities to witness through the many relationships we are building here in Memot. We are always conscious of our great need of the Lord's power.
