Nikki's Notes

For the last 13 days we've been quarantined in a government issued hotel. We are thankful to have a clean room with two beds that not only has good air conditioning, but also hot water! Upon arrival we requested a mini fridge and they immediately brought us one! Praise the Lord! We've not been allowed outside our room since day 1. Today they came and took us to the 2nd floor for our last set of COVID tests. Getting out of the room was a fun adventure! Ha! Lord willing, we will be released as soon as our results come back. That could be tomorrow or up to 72 hours from now. We've kept busy each day with school, games, kids exercise videos, videos, reading, etc. It will certainly be a time we won't forget! We're looking forward to getting home soon!

Faithful Friends, Family, and Supporters,

We are back in Cambodia! Thank you to all who prayed specifically about the trip. We saw many specific answers to prayer, and the trip went as smoothly as we could have wished. Our pre-flight COVID tests came back negative, we caught all of our flights, all of our luggage arrived, and all of our paperwork was accepted by the authorities. We are currently on day 13 of what should be a 14 day quarantine, and hope to be released from our government-monitored hotel room tomorrow or the next day. We ask you to continue to pray for the moving process. We still have a good bit of paperwork to do here in the capital, and the next step is traveling the 4 hours to our home in Memot and getting moved back into our house there. Despite initial rumors to the contrary, we should not have to quarantine again once we return to our province. We're looking forward to seeing how COVID has affected daily life in Memot, and asking for the Lord's wisdom in knowing the best way to move forward with the ministry there. Religious gatherings are still officially banned, but we believe there will still be many ways to get the gospel out. Please pray for us during this crucial time of getting reestablished in Cambodia.

Travel time!
