Nikki's Notes

Our family has become accustomed to eating many different kinds of Cambodian meals. It's not uncommon for us to have rice two or three times a day. It's easy to get the ingredients right here in town. However, sometimes we like to have our own familiar foods. Usually our Western dishes required milk, cheese, or butter and those items cannot be purchased here. We plan a trip to the capital every few months to stock up on these items. Then, we have to save extra time to make each item from scratch. Bread, pasta, tortillas, salsa, cheese, tomato sauce, and yogurt are among the many items we've made from scratch. I usually have a few helping hands for these favorite meals. We all love a taste of home!

Faithful Friends, Family, and Supporters,

Concern about COVID-19, especially the delta variant, continues to run high here in Cambodia. In the cities, significant restrictions are still in place. After a mass vaccination campaign last month, conditions have actually relaxed a bit in our area. The market is now open again, and people seem less worried. We do ask for continued wisdom in making the most of remote and casual ministry opportunities.

Even with COVID fears, we have been able to reconnect with many folks in the community over the past couple of months and seek to use these relationships to spread the Gospel.

Another big project this past month was updating all of the considerable paperwork that has been required for us to minister in this town. I am happy to report that we have been able to maintain good relationships with the authorities and that all the needed documents have come through (for this year...).

We continue to meet for worship every Sunday, and were happy to welcome some visitors last month as well! Currently, we're studying through the book of Acts, a very profitable study for new Christians and churches. Please pray that the believers would be built up in the faith, and that new believers would be added to the number.

For His Name's Sake,

The Brown Family
