

Dear Praying Friend,

May 25, 2020

The last several months have been challenging, but God is sufficient. Several new doors of opportunity opened recently. I praise the Lord for a sweet lady from my sending church to commit to individually supporting my ministry. One of the highlights this month was participating in two virtual missions conferences. I am very grateful for the outpouring of love and generosity bestowed by church members.

This month, I was encouraged by receiving photos of some of the children I have taught in the past, and a letter from one of them in the mail. I'm so thankful that God works in hearts of all ages and abilities. Many children have participated in a Grenada-themed coloring contest through my Facebook page and did a wonderful job.

Please pray for wisdom and direction in scheduling meetings as many states still have restrictions due to Covid-19. My schedule has many openings now, but these circumstances were not a surprise to God.

Grenadians have been affected by the pandemic as well, but they are beginning to open up the country again. They are hoping to finish the new church building this month and begin services again. Prayerfully, my goal is to still get to Grenada this year to begin working in Lifeline Independent Baptist Church ministries.

Through some unexpected health issues this month, God still provided my needs at just the right time. I was given the privilege of house-sitting for one of my supporters and learning how to care for their chickens and plants. This was a fun new experience, and also gave me a short break from traveling to finish some needed paperwork and projects. Please pray as I continue traveling for deputation in the weeks to come, and for more churches and individuals to commit to supporting the work. Thank you for your faithfulness.

Sincerely,

Rebekah Childers
