Missionary to the Amazon area of Brazil.

Well, friends, it seems like I just started raising support yesterday, but it's already been 3 months since I hit the road and began the process of raising the funds needed to go to Brazil. While I have faced some challenges, I can honestly say there is nothing that God hasn't helped me through. After I quit my work in California, I started on the deputation trail full-time. I traveled from Washington State to the southern states and from Florida up to Maryland, going to missions conferences, revival services, church meetings, and a youth camp.

If ya'll know me, ya'll know I don't enjoy much paperwork or office work, yet with prayer and seeking wisdom from God, I found myself enjoying it. If our desires do not match God's, He can change them to align with exactly what He wants.

At this moment, eleven churches have agreed to support me and eight individuals. At one church, I showed up, and the Pastor had been praying for one new missionary; they voted to take me on by the end of the service. To that, I say Amen! And to God be the glory!

From July through August, my schedule is booked traveling to meetings each week around Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia, and South Carolina. For September and October, I'm just about completely booked traveling to meetings in Colorado, Texas, and California. It really is amazing to see how God is working in every detail to accomplish His perfect will.

Thank y'all for all the prayers and support! God Bless Y'all!

In Christ,
Noah Clarke
