Updates from the Road

February started with a drop-in at a church in GA, whose pastor was a college graduate of Landmark where we both graduated from. We were blessed by being able to give a brief presentation of our ministry and catch up with a friend from college that we didn't expect to see.

We had a meeting in FL with a small church that had us in for their missions conference. While we were there the church graciously allowed us to come a few days early to escape the cold in SC. While arriving early we were able to get to know the church family and it is always amazing to see the Lord work in different ways. A few days into the conference, Emrys had a fever that eventually would not break. The church had a nurse who came over to check him out and suggested that we take him to the E.R. to be looked over. The Lord used this sweet church to help us arrange for some of the pastor's family to watch Theo. Emrys had children's bronchitis and we were sent home with some medicines to help clear that up. Its a blessing to see Christians come together to help one another and to feel the prayers that were being offered up for the family. Though we did not have many meetings this month, we were certainly kept busy.

Before we left for MI we were able to present our burden in AL for a Sunday meeting. While there we were able to meet a missionary couple to Mexico who have been on the field for approximately 35 years, they were home on furlough and we spent some time fellowshiping. They were an encouragement to us and we were blessed to get to meet them. We look forward to the upcoming meeting we have scheduled for March.
