Dear Praying Friends,

Since our last letter God has shown Himself strong on our behalf. We have seen souls saved, students surrender to the mission field, and churches give beyond their normal realms of giving. While each day brings opportunities to serve our Lord we attempt to use every dollar invested by you wisely in the work He has called us to do on your behalf.

Last month I went to three Bible colleges to interact with students about surrendering and serving the Lord in missions. It is a thrill to see so many willing to listen to the Lord's leading and prepare to go. While at one of the colleges, several students gathered in a symposium and sought a venue to discuss, learn, and share ideas in missions. From that meeting the website www.missionsblogger.com began. Hundreds of students and missionaries now interact to help get more missionaries to the mission field. I encourage you to view this site and participate as you have opportunity.

This month I visited the Hurricane Katrina affected areas in Gulfport, Mississippi. It is so terrible to see so many people affected. I went to ascertain the current needs and what more needs to be done to help. Pictured here is a large denominational church that sustained damage representative of the area. Please pray for these our brethren who are attempting to rebuild their lives in the face a great tragedy. For those who want to help, let me know and I will put you in touch with a ministry who is helping the members of independent Baptist churches who have been displaced.

Also, the Lord blessed in six missions conferences. The Lord's goodness was manifested in the giving of His people in making Faith Promise Commitments over $350,000.00. Without these commitments the work of Christ is hindered. It is vital that God's people give so the work that has begun may continue and new works may be planted. Please pray for us as we seek to help in the work of world evangelization.

The thrill of Christmas this year is realized in the goodness of God and His gift of Salvation. I pray you will find the riches of His goodness and the preciousness of family and friends rewarding. Our family wishes the best to you and yours. Please find enclosed a new prayer card.

For His work,

John M. O'Malley
