Dear Praying Friends,

Your faithfulness matters more than you may ever know. Thank you for praying for us. Thank you for giving. Thank you for checking on us. Your support not only helps us work with the lost and assist churches and missionaries but also helps us fulfill God's calling. We do not take your kindness lightly. Each month, I am reminded that the work of the Great Commission is not done by one man, one family, one church, or one mission agency. It is done by God's people working together for the gospel.

Because of your partnership, the gospel is being preached. Souls are being saved. Men and women are submitting to God's call. Churches are increasing their giving to missions. Laborers are being encouraged to go further and remain faithful in the work God has given them.

World Wide New Testament Baptist Missions has over 100 missionary families serving with us. As president, the Lord has placed me where I can see the needs of laborers on deputation and on the field of duty. I have the privilege of encouraging them, training them, assisting them, and helping them move forward in the work God has called them to do.

This past month, I assisted new missionary applicants. I helped missionary families take needed steps toward their fields. I held conversations with laborers who are seeking God's will, raising support, and preparing to serve. These are sacred conversations. They involve families, churches, countries, souls, and the will of God.

Your support helps me stand beside these laborers. You are helping missionaries get to the field. You are helping missionaries stay on the field. You are helping churches send more laborers into the harvest.

I also had the privilege of preaching in mission conferences. These meetings are more than calendar events. They are moments when God stirs churches to pray, give, and go. I preached in churches where God's people are raising funds for missions, encouraging laborers to go, and praying that future laborers will rise from their own congregations.

It is a joy to watch a church look again at the harvest field. It is a joy to see young people listen for the call of God. It is a joy to see families consider how their giving can reach souls they may never meet until heaven. Thank you for helping us be in those places.

These were the missionaries at a recent conference. Eight are a part of World Wide New Testament Baptist Missions, including the host Pastor, Dr. Michael West, the Vice Chairman of the Executive Board, and his wife, Boone.

On a personal note, my strength continues to return. I have resumed travel and preaching. I recently finished a two-week meeting, preaching each night. The Lord gave grace, strength, and help. The Lord also provided a piece of equipment identical to the equipment used by the clinic that has been assisting me. This has been a great help in my ongoing recovery and daily strength.

Because of health and travel considerations, I rescheduled a Pacific island trip until winter. I still plan to go to Scotland this fall for a missionary encouragement conference. I would like to bring both my wife and my mother on this trip. Please pray with us about the financial provision they need to go.

Looking ahead, I will continue to help missionaries, inspire the rising generation to serve God, speak in churches, preach at mission conferences, and encourage churches to stay focused on the Great Commission. I want every church I serve to remember that missions is not a department of the church. It is the heartbeat of our Lord's command.

You matter in this work. Your prayers matter. Your giving matters. Your encouragement matters. Your kindness to our family matters.

Thank you for standing with us as we seek to serve Christ, encourage laborers, strengthen churches, and reach the lost with the gospel.

Yours for the harvest,

John O'Malley
